

XAVIER CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS TO COST $8,000

Interior of Edifice To Be Decorated; Change at Convent, Rectory.

PLAN CHANGES IN CEMETERY

Rev. Father Mark E. Stock, pastor of St. Francis Xavier's Catholic church, announced at the three Sunday morning services that extensive improvements totalling between $6,000 and $8,000 would be made to the church property. He said work will start immediately after Easter.

The major improvement will be the refinishing of the interior of the church. All the woodwork will be repainted. The two offsets in the main church, constructed when the exterior of the church was remodelled several years ago, will be frescoed. The present interior frescoing on the walls and ceilings, all in oil, will be refinished, retouched and restored to its original brilliance.

New lighting fixtures will replace the present large chandeliers. New carpet will be laid in the aisles and in front of the communion rail. The statuary will be cleaned and retouched. The fourteen stations of the cross will be repainted in natural colors. Other improvements are under consideration for the balcony of the church.

To Rebuild Organ

It is Father Stock's intention to have the organ rebuilt and enlarged, later.

The convent and rectory will be weather-stripped. The rectory will be repapered. A new iron fence will replace the present damaged fence around the Catholic cemetery, West High street, and new roads will be built in the cemetery.

Father Stock also plans to landscape the cemetery and replant the major portion.

It was announced that the special fund for improvements is sufficient to pay for the extensive improvements to be done at this time. The church will not go into debt for the improvements, Father Stock said, adding, "We have not been in debt for many, many years and so long as I remain here we will not go into debt for anything. If at any time I leave this parish there will not be any incumbrances on the church property."

Engage Local Labor

Several years ago Father Stock had practically completed plans for the elaborate redecoration of the church which would have entailed the expenditure of more than $75,000. When the present economic reverse set in his plans were abandoned and he has decided to proceed with his present plans.

All work will be done by local labor with the possible exception of the refrescoing of the oils in the interior of the church.

The improvements will be started immediately after Easter and will not be completed until some time this summer.

Squirrels Find Haven in Stove

A mother gray squirrel has established a new home for herself and four baby squirrels in a stove in an old sawmill cabin on the farm of W. B. Thompson and sons, tenanted by Walter A. Tressler, near Orttanna.

Saturday afternoon when Lloyd Tressler and Glen Rider went to the old abandoned sawmill cabin at the close of their day's work to deposit their tools, they heard some noise emerging from an unused stove that had been in the cabin for some time.

Tressler went to the stove, removed the lid and heard some scratching and scraping noises that sounded as though some animal was trying to climb up the stove pipe.

Probing into the shaving and waste paper in the stove Tressler found four baby squirrels in a nest with the mother squirrel standing guard at the entrance up the stove pipe, the only apparent exit from the nest for the animals.

The youth left the squirrels in the nest.

SHIPPENSBURG PLAY CONTEST WON BY BIGLER

Upper Countians Present "Thirst" and Receive Judge's Award.

IS CONSIDERED UNUSUAL HONOR

With the intensely emotional one-act play, "Thirst," the Peter Pan dramatic club of the Biglerville high school won the class B competition in the second annual one-act play contest held at Shippensburg State Teachers' college, Saturday evening.

Eleven high school dramatic clubs were entered in class B. Besides Biglerville, they were Mechanicsburg, Fairfield, Hanover, Shippensburg, Lemoyne, St. Thomas, Metal township, Boiling Springs, Camp Hill and Millersburg.

This was the first time the Peter Pan players participated in the Shippensburg contest, and winning the class B competition is considered an unusual honor for the upper-county high school dramatic club.

The scene of "Thirst" is laid in the dungeon of a Spanish castle, and Leo Baker's portrayal of a man dying from lack of water captivated the audience and judges. Others in the cast were William Gindesperger and Donald Lady, both of whom gave excellent character portrayals.

Guests of College
The winning one-act play was directed by Miss Jessica G. Weaver, teacher in the Biglerville high school. Makeup was in charge of Stanton Thomas, while Miss Eleanor Dill was in charge of property.

Oscar Rice, Jr., and Miss Dorothy Walton, of Biglerville, both members of the Peter Pan players, attended the competition.

The cast of "Thirst" and the director were guests of the teachers' college over the week-end.

The players of the Altoona high school dramatic club, for the second time in two years, won the class A competition, with their presentation of "The House With the Twisted Window." Other high schools in that class were John Harris and William Penn, both of Harrisburg and Huntingdon.

2 NEGROES HELD FOR ATTEMPTING TO STEAL PURSE

Miss Cora M. Topper Attacked on West Middle Street Saturday Night.

ENROLLEES AT CAMP CONFESS

Russell H. Fullen, 17, colored, of Manchester, York county, an enrollee at C. C. C. camp No. 2, on the battlefield, is in the county jail, charged with aggravated assault and battery in attempting to steal the pocketbook of Miss Cora M. Topper, East Middle street. The alleged attack took place on West Middle street, Saturday night.

George Hopkins, 23, another enrollee at M. P. 2, is also in jail charged with being an accessory before and after the act.

When Fullen was arrested, on his way to camp, and had been lodged in jail a crowd of about 40 curious persons gathered outside the jail.

Although Miss Topper refused to discuss the incident today, state police said Fullen watched her turn from Baltimore street into West Middle street between 10 and 10:30 o'clock, Saturday evening, carrying a pocketbook and followed her.

At the rear of the People's cash store and in front of the lighted parking lot behind the store, the negro attempted to take the purse from Miss Topper, according to state police. The woman screamed, and the colored man slapped his hand across her mouth, the officers said, while Miss Topper endeavored to fight him off.

Miss Topper Falls
In the tussle for the purse, Miss Topper fell to the sidewalk, according to the state police, and continued to scream.

Fullen was arrested on his way to camp and committed to the borough lockup. At first he denied having attempted to steal Miss Topper's purse, but on Sunday morning, when Officer C. M. Spence visited him, Fullen, according to the officer, said he was ready to tell the truth, and later he gave the officers a signed statement, they said.

In his purported statement, Fullen said that after he attempted to take the purse, he ran out West Middle street, leaped over an iron fence and hid for a while. Later, he said, he started for camp, meeting on the way, enrollee Dickson, cook at the camp.

Gives No Reason
Fullen gave no reason for his alleged act in his purported statement.

Mrs. C. William Beales and Mrs. Henrietta Blocher who reside in the Blocher apartment building, who were across the street from the scene of the attempted robbery, were attracted by Miss Topper's screams, and saw the colored man run away. Both tentatively identified Fullen as the man they saw running away.

Roland McChain, son of the assistant manager of Murphy's store, Baltimore street, who was also attracted by Miss Topper's screams, and who chased the colored man for some distance on West Middle street, also made a tentative identification of Fullen as the man he chased.

Another Involved

Continuing their investigation today, state and local police arrested George Hopkins, 23, also a member of C. C. C. camp, No. 2, as an accessory before and after the attempted robbery. Questioned at police headquarters, Hopkins admitted, the officers said, he was with Fullen, Saturday evening, that they drank a pint of alleged moonshine liquor and that he suggested the "snatching" of the purse to Fullen. He denied, however, that he was with Fullen when the latter made the alleged unsuccessful attempt to take Miss Topper's purse. Hopkins signed a statement, police said, admitting his part in the attempted robbery.

Despite the wavering symptoms, such issues as North American, Texas Gulf, Westinghouse, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Dupont and American radiator managed to retain small advances. U. S. State Senator Salus, His Brother and Four Others Are Ousted.

Philadelphia, April 15 (AP).—State Senator Samuel W. Salus, a lawyer for 40 years, and five other attorneys were disbarred today from the practice of law in Pennsylvania courts.

Two others escaped the severe discipline for "unprofessional conduct" growing out of charges of collusion with gambling racketeers but drew admonition from the court of five judges.

The others disbarred were Salus' brother, Herbert W. Salus, a Philadelphia civil service commissioner; Albert P. Goldberg, their salaried employee; Charles J. Green, Arthur S. Werblum and Bernard L. Lemisch.

Admonished were Fred C. Gardner, former assemblyman, and J. Brad Brodsky.

Sensor Salus would not comment. His brother, Herbert, said he will have "plenty" to say tomorrow unless his counsel "vetoes" it.

Judge Howard Davis, one of the "judicial jury," said in handing down the opinion "this is the end of a very painful duty which has been done after a long, tedious, careful consideration of the testimony."

Rev. George E. Snyder Asserts We Need Living God in Heart.

TEXT SELECTED FROM MATTHEW

"All The City Was Moved," was the theme of the sermon delivered as the Palm Sunday sermon, Sunday morning, at the Mt. Zion United Brethren church, by the Rev. George E. Snyder, pastor.

A brief of the sermon follows: "Preparation was being made for the Passover feast. Crowds had flocked to Jerusalem from all points of the country. And into the midst of all the excitement had crept the rumor that Jesus of Nazareth was coming. On top of this had come the announcement that he must be arrested. The majority sided with the authority.

"On the next day much people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming, took branches of Palm leaves and went forth to meet Him.

"As Jesus nears Jerusalem, the crowd comes out to meet Him. Those from Jerusalem turn back and escort Him. Those from Bethany follow behind. They were singing: 'Hosanna to the son of David; blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest.'"

"The bitter anguish of the hollow sham. Country peasants had accepted Him; Galilee had accepted Him; but Jerusalem, the city he loved, rejected and scorned. But, you say, were not the people shouting Hosanna to the Son of David? Yes. But in a few short days the streets of this self same city to which they were coming would ring with that other cry, 'Crucify Him, Crucify Him.'"

"And when he was near he beheld the city, and wept over it. As Jesus approached the city, he saw through the sham and shallowness of its shouting, the wild Hosannas. As the Prophet of Israel stood facing the naked truth, a cry of anguish escapes his lips. 'O, Israel, how can I give thee up?'"

"The sin and evil of a city are a curse unto it. Therefore a city usually does three things: It builds a prison, an insane asylum and a potters field, and then thinks it has done its duty. But more is needed than this. The power of the living God in the heart of the individual is the only criteria for a social morality. Where man sees in the crowd of the city a means of commercial gratification, Jesus saw the souls he had come to redeem. And when He was come he beheld the city and wept over it."

Fulfills Purpose
"Christ steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem, even though he went with a broken heart, even though it brought the agony of a Gethsemane, he went steadfastly on, believing it to be the will of his Father, and the fulfillment of a life purpose. He never for a moment left the praise and the acclaim of the crowd turn him from his true objective.

"We have seen how Jesus' entry into Jerusalem was the fulfillment of a life purpose, and how he met the question that has become the symbolized utterance of the universal heart of man. Who is this? I would leave two closing thoughts with you.

"First, Palm Sunday is progressive. Though we may be elated for a time, the time comes when the shadow of a cross looms before us, as it did before Him. But Christ found victory in the cross.

"Second, Jesus' last entry into Jerusalem was the final offering of himself to the Jewish nation as their Messiah as well as to the whole world. There came a time in our own experience when he offered himself to us; when our hearts were touched by his infinite love, and when we answered to our satisfaction the question who is this? When there comes a challenge to reason, to faith, to love. 'Whom say ye that I am?' May we answer with a faith that is bound up inexpressibly with all our faculties, 'Thou art the Christ the Son of the living God.' And if perchance He has come to you for the first time this morning are you ready and willing to respond to His call?"

WILL EXPLAIN "BOND ISSUE"

Burgess Thompson, of Emmitsburg, Calls Meeting of Citizens Tonight.

In order to have no misunderstanding on the part of voters at the annual corporation election in Emmitsburg, May 6, Burgess M. J. Thompson has called a meeting of the citizens and taxpayers of the town for this evening at eight o'clock in the firemen's hall, when he will explain why the $10,000 bond, which was passed by the last Maryland general assembly, was floated. The bond issue, in addition to the election of a burgess and one commissioner, will be voted upon May 6.

At the April meeting of the burgess and commissioners, Robert Smith, a representative of the Potomac-Edison company, of Frederick, and Charles F. Troxell, branch manager at Emmitsburg, were present. Mr. Smith addressed the meeting in regard to the workings of the company and the reduced light rate put into effect last month. Mr. Smith explained that the lighting facilities for the corporation were not up to the expectation of his company and that they were anxious to give better service. He explained that it was necessary to get new equipment and a change in the candle power of the lamps. This improvement, he said, would not cost the town anything. All that was needed was permission from the town authorities to go ahead with the work. Under the new installation, Mr. Smith explained that the town rate which for years has been $76.50 per month would be reduced to $73.20.

In order to dispose of a few matters yet before the burgess and commissioners, a special meeting has been called for Tuesday night. At this meeting it will be decided whether the houses in town will be numbered, a movement which was sponsored by the Lions club several weeks ago.

ARREST THREE IN MURDER PLOT

Geneva Police "Detain" Two Men and Women; Three Lives Threatened.

Geneva, April 15 (AP).—Local police today revealed a plot to assassinate three noted European statesmen and disclosed two men and a woman had been "detained" in Marseille.

The statesmen plotted against, police said, were Pierre Laval, of France; Dr. Eduard Benes, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, and Nicholas Titulescu, foreign minister of Rumania. They described the terrorists as anarchists.

Police said the alleged plot was directed against Benes and Titulescu on the ground that they were believed hostile to revision of peace treaties.

Authorities sent out a general alarm throughout Switzerland and to Germany, French and Austrian frontiers to deny entrance to all suspected anarchists.

New Bones Found in Doctor's Home May Be Those of Humans

Lancaster, Pa., April 15 (AP).—A new discovery of bones—large particles resembling those of humans—on the Dr. H. E. Zimmerly farm Sunday night spurred state police in the investigation of the disappearance of Mrs. Gladys Lawson.

The Calvert, Maryland, resident was last seen March 16 after an operation in the country doctor's squalid farm home-hospital.

William A. Miller, of the homicide squad of the state police, said the bones were found late Saturday in a pile of ashes in front of Dr. Zimmerly's furnace.

Thought Human Bones
"While we cannot say definitely that these are human bones," the officer declared, "we have reasons to believe they may be."

"The particles are much larger than those found a week ago and

MOSLEY STARTS ATTACK ON JEWS

British Fascist Leader Declares New Policy of His Organization.

Leicester, England, April 15 (AP).—Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader, voiced his organization's policy towards Jews Sunday with an attack rivaling, if not surpassing, some of Adolf Hitler's anti-Semitic outbursts.

The stormy meeting was marked by repeated scuffles between Black Shirts and booing hecklers.

"For the first time I openly and publicly challenge Jewish interests in this country," the tall and handsome leader of the Black Shirts declared. "Commanding commerce, commanding the press, commanding the cinema, dominating the city of London, they are killing industry with their sweatshops."

Anti Fascists Halted
"These great interests are not intimidating and will not intimidate the Fascist movement of the modern age."

Police thwarted an attempt by anti-Fascists to march on the hall where Mosley was speaking, dispersing the procession after a brief clash in which sticks swung, and several were struck down.

Black-Shirt stewards ejected many hecklers, who set up a din of boos and jeers in an effort to drown out Mosley.

TRIPLETS BORN IN ABANDONED SCHOOL

Somerset, April 15 (AP).—Dr. T. C. Lyons Sunday night led a campaign for milk and clothing for the Kiser triplets, born to parents "on relief" in an abandoned mountain schoolhouse three days ago.

Doctor Lyons said although Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kiser are "destitute and half starving" the three babies are in "fair health" but need clothing, food and other necessities.

They were born on Friday in Shade township, a remote section in the Alleghenies, in an old schoolhouse where the parents had taken up shelter.

First of School Bus Victims Is Buried at Williamsport

Williamsport, Md., April 15 (AP).—The first of the fourteen funerals for the children killed in the Rockville disaster took place here Sunday.

Carl Brindle's Sunday school classmates carried his casket into the Bethany Christian church at Downsville, a few miles from here, at 1:30 p. m. And hundreds of his friends in this stricken community began the sad procession of visits to one church and graveyard after another, which they will not finish until they have buried the last of the fourteen victims, James Flurie, on Wednesday.

Nearly a thousand persons crowded the home of Leroy Kendle, and the meadow surrounding it when his funeral began at 4:30 p. m.

Worse Than World War
The horror of the town was pictured in the words of a man as he wandered from one door to another where wreaths were hung:

"Even the World War didn't do this to us. Only five from Williamsport were killed then."

Automobiles by the hundreds moved about the town. Each house of mourning had so many visitors they had to let them in a few at a time. At the Fluries alone it was estimated 3,000 have called.

Miss Louise Funk, the school teacher who accompanied the children on the fateful trip Thursday night when their bus was struck by a train, has visited all the parents of her dead pupils, and is attending all the funerals. Percy Line, who drove the bus, went to each home Saturday. All were courteous to him, the townfolks say. One barely hears any expression of vindictiveness against him.

The members of the school board and the faculty of the Williamsport high school, which the dead students attended, called at each home.

Various Awards
There are service awards made at the close of each camp. Last year George W. Olinger, of Gettysburg, and Arno M. Pfoff, Jr., of Hanover, received the Military Training Corps Associations medals.

Lieutenant Boehner's committee comprises: J. Raymond Belz, F. V. Topper and George D. Livelsperger, McSherrystown; Professor Charles I. Raffensperger, of Biglerville; Professor C. C. Taylor, of Arendtsville; Professor W. R. Stary of York Springs, and Victor C. Crouse, of Littlestown.

The superior court opinion said:—

"There was room on the street for the taxi driver to have gone farther to the left, but he was on his right side of the roadway, and was not bound to anticipate the sudden opening of the car door by Seiler, without taking precautions to look or listen before so doing. It was that unexpected action that caused the accident. Negligence could not be imputed to a failure to avoid this sudden opening of the door. The driver of the taxi cab was in that position on the street where he had a right to be, proceeding properly, and, undoubtedly he would have passed the car without mishap, but for Seiler's unforeseen action."

In previous ceremonies, trees were planted at Camp Ganoga in memory of the late Rev. Dr. Earl J. Bowman and the late Wilbur Oyler, of Gettysburg.

GREAT RICHES

by Mateel Howe Farnham

SYNOPSIS: James and Jane Stimson, for whose marriage the whole of eligible New Concord was responsible, just have had still another quarrel. James has refused to take a shady but profitable divorce case even when urged by Jane and her wealthy father. Jane worships her father and is contemptuous of James. Now James, in trying to cool off out of doors, trying to forget his wife's insulting remark about old Judge Holcomb, James' law partner and best friend.

Chapter 37 JANE'S DEMAND

But perhaps Jane understood his limitations only too well, thought James. It must be true that the judge had been blinded from the very beginning by his loving fondness. Certainly no one but the judge believed now that he still showed any signs of greatness. Jane and her father and mother made only the feeblest attempts to hide their disappointment and contempt.

The young people with whom he had grown up still liked him well enough, but they called him "poor James" behind his back. If he went to the grocery store to give an order for Jane, Mr. Perkins thought it a great joke to ask whether it should be charged to him or Mr. Northrup.

Even the judge had begun . . . But perhaps he had become over-reckless and imaginative. That would be the last straw, the last and final straw, if his old friend lost faith in him.

When James went home an hour later he found Jane still sitting on the porch rocking back and forth.

"Can't I get you a shawl? Aren't you cold?" he said quickly, hoping to placate her.

"No, thank you. It isn't cold. Where have you been?"

"Nowhere. Just walking around."

"James, I've been sitting here thinking things over and I've come to a decision. We've been married five years and in that time we've practically stood still. I think perhaps you were right a little while ago when you said you could not make a success of anything your heart was not in."

"I'm glad, dear, you could see that. Thank you."

"No reason for thanking me. The thing to do is to decide what you can do best. It hardly seems worth while for a grown man to spend his time and energy persuading poor miserable old women to get rid of drunken brutes when you know next week they'll be back again asking to be beaten. Surely James, you want to do something better than that."

"I think I have done something better than that, Jane."

"Well, yes, of course, but I'm speaking figuratively. But you aren't a money maker and you never will be. You aren't interested in making money. Now, honestly, are you?"

"Well, yes, I want to make money. But I don't take a case just for the money in it, if that's what you mean."

"Exactly. So that you may peg along here for a thousand years and never make as much as five thousand a year. But you are interested in politics and Father says the judge still has enormous political influence. Now the judge can't possibly live much longer and if he ever is going to put you in Congress now is the time."

"But, Jane, I'm only twenty-nine. Naturally they wouldn't elect me. Besides, Daniels is a perfectly good man and has represented this district for years. He is sixty-one or two now, and the judge thinks he will drop out just about the time I am ready to run—say in five or six years. But I'm only a kid in politics now."

"Then why doesn't the judge at least send you to the state legislature?"

"He wants me to run next term, but McCullough is entitled to his two years. The judge promised them to him."

"If it isn't one thing it's another, I suppose when you are fifty you will still be waiting for someone to die or for something to turn up. Oh, if I were a man I would not stay tied to an octogenarian's apron strings. I'd do what my father did, what all men who have amounted to anything did. I'd make up my mind what I wanted and go out and get it."

"Jane," said James after a little unhappy silence, "has it ever occurred to you that all our discussions end this way? And doesn't that seem a very horrible thing to you? It does to me."

"I suppose so," answered Jane fretfully, "but I dare say you'll be claiming next that it's all my fault. If you had my nerves or suffered with your back as I suffer with mine it seems to me that I would be a little considerate and go out of my way occasionally to try to please you."

"I'm not claiming anything or blaming anybody. I am trying to figure out just where the trouble lies. Nor is it just to say I have not tried to please you. Sometimes I think I try too hard. Sometimes I think you would like me better if I gave you real cause for disliking me."

"I don't dislike you. How silly! Let's go to bed or first thing you know you will be getting sentimental and I'm not in a sentimental mood tonight."

James sighed and the discussion ended. What James wanted to ask of Jane and did not dare, was why she so often went out of her way and spent so much energy to hunt up old grievances against him.

Not that it was really necessary to ask. James, unfortunately, knew the answer. He knew only too well that it was necessary for Jane's peace of mind that she stand well in her own eyes. Even she could not make herself believe that she treated her husband fairly these days.

James knew that Jane was ashamed of the scene before her father—ashamed in her heart of hearts of the attitude she had taken regarding Mrs. Preston. But he knew, too, that if she were ashamed tonight and somewhat repentant she could not or would not rest content until she had somehow found excuse for herself and was once more happily restored in her self-esteem.

And to do that it was unfortunately necessary that he should be sacrificed and his culpability magnified. Old offenses would be dug up and hashed and rehashed—old quarrels re-lived; old grievances multiplied.

James went to sleep dreading the morning. "I believe that Jane's conscience is to blame—that we both would be happier if she had no conscience," was his last waking thought.

Hides Broken Back to 'Keep Dad From Worry'

Hollywood, April 15 (AP).—The legend of the Spartan youth who remained silent while a fox gnawed at his tunic gnawed at his vitals had a modern counterpart here Sunday.

Greta Karen Hale, 9-year-old daughter of Alan Hale, film actor, lies in a hospital with a broken back.

Her injury was aggravated, doctors say, by the fact that, for two days, she attempted to conceal it, so as not to worry her father.

Dr. E. W. Tice, attending physician, said the little girl may have to remain in a plaster cast for many months longer than usual because of her heroic, but ill-advised, actions.

Last week, while visiting at the home of friends in Glendale, Greta fell down a flight of stairs.

X-rays later showed two broken vertebrae in her spine. She complained of great pain, but asked that doctors not be called.

"Daddy's so busy," she said, "I don't want to worry him."

Hale said he had been working nights in scenes from a new picture, and had had his days crowded by business conferences. "I had a lot on my mind, all right," the actor said. "But, if I had only known—"

Greta remained a day longer than her parents expected at the home of her friends. She stayed in bed.

When she no longer could endure the pain, she told her mother.

Chicago, April 15 (AP).—Sanford (Gimpy) Rosenbaum, bodyguard of Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, was dangerously wounded Sunday.

Bullets ripped through Rosenbaum's right arm, left shoulder and chin. The gunman jumped into his car and sped off.

O'Donnell, one time boss of the South Side bootleggers, offered no explanation of the shooting when he was called at his home Sunday afternoon.

Prep Defeats F. & M. Academy

Gettysburg academy's baseball nine won its first game of the season Saturday by defeating the Franklin and Marshall academy tribe, at Lancaster, 9-2.

Coach Zeigler's boys clinched the game in the first inning by pounding Ortiz out of the box and chalking up four runs. In the same frame "Doc" McHenry made a brilliant catch of Whetstone's long drive.

Al Thomas, star southpaw for the locals, whiffed eight batters and yielded but four hits. This makes a total of 17 strikeouts and 5 hits in two games off Thomas.

McHenry, Thomas, Dehlin and Saylor each collected two safeties in four official times at bat.

York collegiate institute will be met by the prep team here Saturday, May 4.

8,271 men and women visited the Chesterfield factories during the past year . . .

A man who visited a Chesterfield factory recently, said: "Now that I have seen Chesterfields made, I understand better than ever why people say Chesterfields are milder and have a better taste."

If you too could visit our factories you could see the clean, airy surroundings; the employees in their spotless uniforms, and the modern cigarette making machinery.

You could notice how carefully each Chesterfield cigarette is inspected and see also how Chesterfields are practically untouched by human hands.

Whenever you happen to be in Richmond, Va., Durham, N. C., or San Francisco, California, we invite you to stop at the Liggett & Myers plants and see how Chesterfields are made.

Extract of a letter to the Editor,

"Harrisburg, April 8, 1835.

"Dear Sir—It gives me pleasure to inform you, as it will our readers to hear, that the law taking the compound interest off the land and grading the poor unpatented land, has passed the Senate, as it passed the House before. It only wants the signature of the Governor to become a law."

We learn from Harrisburg that the bill dividing the Judicial District, and forming a new one composed of York and Adams counties, has passed both Houses.

Beals, to Miss Charlotte Mary Ock-

On Tuesday last, by the Rev. Mr.
Gutelius, Mr. John Kump to Miss Anna Winemiller—both of this county.

Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy.

Then said he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with me.

And he went a little further,
and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me:
nevertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter, What, could ye not watch with me one hour?

Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak.

He went away again the second time and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may pass not away from me, except I drink
it, thy will be done.

And he came and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy.

And he left them, and went away again and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

Then cometh he to his disciples and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.

Rise, let us be going; behold, he is at hand that doth betray me.

LENT
These little feats of self-denial
Which mark the time of Lent
Are practise for the greater trial
Which unto all is sent.

We choose a tiny sacrifice to task us.
Some pleasure we forsake,
Preparing for the day when God shall ask us
A bitterer test to take.

For forty days and nights we call it fasting
When pleasure is forsworn,
But there are hurts and sorrows longer lasting
Which bravely must be borne.
We give up friends on whom our joys depended
And long for them in vain,
Yet there shall come a time when Lent is ended
And we shall meet again.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams—
LOVE OVER ALL

WOULDN'T this be a glorious world if the principle of "one for all, and all for one" actually prevailed?

Fear is the greatest destroying factor in all life. It's as evident in civilized countries as it is in the jungle. All Europe is in a state of fear.
Hatred, jealousy, greed each is a child of fear. When we read of all the elaborate plans being made to throw the world into another war, we cannot but think of the savage state in which we still live. A war is cruel, foolish and insane. To sacrifice the best blood of the race upon the altar of selfish national interests—as prescribed by ambitious rulers—is an insult to both patriotism and liberty.

What is there to this rivalry business, anyway? Is there any reason in the world why one nation should be bigger than another? Does the fact that one man has a million dollars, while his neighbor has but a thousand, make that first man abler, nobler or more respected than the latter? Why should not all nations live in peace and co-operate toward the universal happiness and wellbeing of all? For two nations, or a group of nations, to start out to murder, plunder, and destroy each other, accomplishes nothing but chaos and destruction all around.

The Christian teaching is love for all—and no set of brains, since the world began, has ever been able to formulate a greater one. Civilization can never amount to anything unless it is saturated with a consideration for the other fellow. Co-operation for the welfare of all must be the watchword for the preservation of humanity.

The chap who forever bespeaks his own troubles is an advance agent for trouble generally.

I read a very interesting statement by the late Elbert Hubbard, recently. He said: "Beware of chums—they only pool their weaknesses. He is strongest who stands alone. Be a friend to all—stand by all—speak well of all. If you lend a willing ear to any man's troubles, you make them your own, and you do not lessen his."

He who hates spreads poison and death. He who loves opens to gates to light—and Heaven itself!

Capes? Everybody loves them—they've descended upon fashion like April showers. All sorts of capes. In this charming dress, Marian Martin has minimized the cape influence—but used it to advantage. Joining in front like a raglan sleeve, and cut in one with the yoke in back, these cape sleeves give grace and proper proportioning to the mature figure.
A small bow, adroitly placed, adds a winsome touch at the bodice. You'll find the cut of the skirt excellent, too. It's a grand dress to make up in a flower print or a solid sheer, or in voile or lawn for the heat waves to come. The capes may contrast.

Pattern 9342 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42

A wide, dropped shoulder that makes you look as demure and sweet as an old-fashioned maid, a bodice that gathers onto that yoke for dainty softness, and a graceful sleeve! What more could a modern maid ask for charm in this season when prettiness has come back into its own? For in spite of its quaint quality, the dress is, after all, modern and chic. Sleeves may flare or puff, as you wish. And this is an easy dress to make and a practical one to wear? Choose a gaily colored lovely silk print or a cotton one.
Printed handkerchief linen, too, is stunning for this dress.

STATE TO GET
HUGE PROJECTS

$86,000,000 in New Relief Works Approved and To Be Started Soon.

Harrisburg, April 15.—Work relief projects valued at $86,000,000, including the finance building, last of the Brunner group of state office buildings here, can be started as soon as word comes from the federal public works administration, Secretary of Forest and Waters Ralph M. Bas-shore, chairman of the state planning board, said Sunday.

Plans and specifications for the $86,000,000 worth of projects, which includes armories, water works, streets, school buildings, bridges and almshouses as well as the finance building, have been approved by Washington authorities and returned to Major William H. Gravel, state engineer for the PWA.

In addition, Basshore said, plans and specifications are ready on a great many other projects, which make a total of nearly 1,000,000,000 in projects which have been submitted to the planning board.

Supervision Needed

"Machinery must be set up to supervise carrying out most of these other projects," Basshore said. "Passage of legislation now before the general assembly is essential if Pennsylvania is to get its full share of public works and work relief funds under the $4,800,000,000 bill just passed by congress. This legislation includes the bill creating a permanent state planning board, a state housing authority and a general state authority."

Officials of the planning board have listed a total of 5,032 projects which would, when completed, aggregate $939,346,018.05 in cost, that have been requested in Pennsylvania. They disclosed that every county in the state, and a great majority of the political units within the counties, have sent in requests, which vary from costly projects of all types to $40 for a cataloging system for a free library, which was all that one borough felt it needed.

More than 23 per cent of the total proposed projects consists of work on streets and highways. In this group, 1655 individual projects have been proposed which would aggregate $221,239,850.

NOTE JIMMY NEILSON'S
TEMPERATURE HAS RISEN

Fall River, Mass., April 15 (AP)— Jimmy Neilson's temperature rose two degrees Sunday, but doctors reported the 13-year-old San Jose (California) boy "slightly more comfortable" Sunday night.

A hospital bulletin said Jimmy's temperature was 101.6, pulse 118 and respiration 24. The youngster, operated on a week ago to correct a ruptured diaphragm, apparently benefited from a blood transfusion performed last Friday.

Alyce Jane McHenry, the 10-year-old Omaha (Nebraska) girl of upside-down stomach fame, spent a quiet Sunday at the nurses' home, where she has lived since she was released from the hospital last week.

RUBBER PEACE
PLAN APPROVED

Three Akron (Ohio) Companies Reach Agreement;
35,000 Men Involved.

Akron, Ohio, April 15 (AP).—Union rubber workers in the Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone tire plants retified Sunday an agreement averting their threatened strike.

The agreement was reached in Washington Saturday night between labor leaders and officials of the three companies following conferences arranged by Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, and was subject to the ratification of the three local chapters of the United Rubber Workers union, an American federation of labor affiliate.

It provides that the companies will meet with representatives of any group of employees for collective bargaining. It also postpones strike action pending final court tests of orders by the national labor relations board that Goodrich and Firestone should hold immediate elections for representation in collective bargaining.

Each union chapter met separately at closed meetings, Colman Claherty, president of the rubber workers council, announced, first, that the Goodrich local accepted the agreement during a morning meeting. Firestone union workers were next to agree. The Goodyear local then followed.

In each local, officials said, only a small minority voted against the measure.

The strike would have affected 35,000 workers in the three plants.

and wear chamois gauntlet gloves.

"FELT MISERABLE

Checked Her Constipation*

Read Mrs. Marsden's letter: "I have been a subject of constipation* for the last 11 years. I felt miserable and irritable most of the time.
My husband is a manager of a chain store. He said 'Why don't you try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN'?"

"ALL-BRAN helped me rig-away. I have taken it now for the past 5 months, and I am as regular as a clock. My health is fine, and I am full of pep."—Mrs.
Charles Marsden, 681 Merrick St., Detroit, Mich.

*Constipation due to insufficient
"bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk"
to aid regular habits. It also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way see your doctor.

patent medicines? Get the

BRITISH NAVAL REVIEW
PLANNED FOR JUBILEE

London, April 15 (AP)—More than 160 fighting craft will take part in the royal jubilee naval review off Spithead July 16.

The flags of twelve admirals will be flown and the assembly will constitute the biggest peace-time demonstration of naval strength since the "test mobilization" in the same waters in July, 1914.

The home and Mediterranean fleet in full strength will be present with the greater part of the commissioned reserve fleet, this means the entire capital fleet and practically all the "A Class" cruisers will be in line, probably in formation on three parallel lines with auxiliary vessels and small craft.

NEW STYLE IN HATS

London (AP)—Coal-scuttel fashion hats have a moderately wide brim wrapped over the shallow crown at the back and sides. The brim is left down at the right front side to form a peak.

TO SEEK $4,800,000 ON EAST RIVER'S EDDY

Milford, Conn., April 15.—Simon Lake, famous inventor and designer of submarines, announced Sunday that he will begin operations in New York's East river within ten days in his quest for $4,800,000 in gold which went to the bottom with the British frigate Hussar in 1780, during the Revolutionary war.

He is confident that he will be able to locate the treasure—if such there is—before the passing of five months marks the lapse of his contract with the treasury department. Mr. Lake's arrangement with the treasury department provides that the federal government shall receive ten per cent of any treasure raised and that the balance shall be subject to the income tax laws. Last fall two salvage companies without permits were restrained by the coast guard from carrying on operations on the spot where the Hussar is said to have gone down.

'BUFFALO BILL' KINSMAN, LOUIS E. DECKER, IS DEAD

Denver, April 15 (AP)—Death has closed the career of Louis E. Decker, 71, brother-in-law of "Buffalo Bill" and for two decades manager of Cody's famous Wild West show. Decker died at the home of a friend here Saturday after three years' illness of heart disease.

A distant cousin of the famous Colonel William F. Cody, he married Mrs. Mary Cody Bradford, widow sister of the colonel, in 1906. They moved to Denver in 1913 and it was at their home that Colonel Cody died in 1917. Decker was born in New York state, but came west as a young man.

Joe Vandie, of Charlotte, North Carolina, built a three-room house with odd bricks he picked up here and there.

FRANCE FILES ARMS PROTEST

Sends Statement to League of Nations Against Rearmarmg by Germany.

(Copyright, 1935, By A. P.)
Geneva, April 15.—France warned the world against a "reign of force" in protesting Germany's rearmament to the League of Nations Sunday as the League Council assembled to decide what shall be done about it.

No specific penalty against Berlin was demanded in the French document, but it suggested application of sanctions to future violators of the Versailles treaty. A united front, Paris warned, must be maintained against treaty repudiations if the world is to be kept from war.

Keynote Is Based On Peace
Despite the French memorandum and a document adopted by three powers at Stresa, the keynote here on the eve of the council meeting was that of a united front for peace rather than a united front against Germany.

There was censure for Germany, however, in two documents which were made public during the day—one at Stresa where the Franco-Britain-Italy conferences ended Saturday, and one here.

Regarded As Bid To Germany
Both the French appeal to the League here and the communique at Stresa are deemed as constituting urgent bids to Germany to participate in binding European peace arrangements. Both, too, are seen here as emphasizing the need for accords that must be lived up to if Europe would avert a reign of force.

The reaffirmation of Britain and Italy at Stresa that they will fulfill to guarantee peace on the Rhine is considered a powerful influence in Europe's efforts to prevent war. The Locarno agreement, formulated just ten years ago, entails military assistance from Britain and Italy in the event of unprovoked aggression upon Germany. Should France be attacked, Rome and London are also pledged to go to her assistance. The aggressor is to be determined by the League of Nations. The action of Italy and Britain in reaffirming their responsibilities was an unexpected addition to the results of the Stresa conference.

During the bridge marathon in which Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson defeated Mr. and Mrs. P. Hal Sims, the Four Aces threw down the gauntlet to them for team-of-four match for a purse of $10,000.

Neither the Culbertsons nor the Sims accepted.

The Aces—Michael T. Gottlieb, Oswald Jacoby, David Burstin and Howard Schenken—Sunday night again challenged "Ely Culbertson and Mrs. Ely Culbertson, end any two other bridge experts of the world to a team-of-four match of 300 boards for a purse of $20,000."

LABOR CLOUDS DARKEN WEST

Fear of Impending Lumber Strike Rises; May Involve 75,000 Workers.

San Francisco, April 15 (AP).—Strike clouds reminiscent of those preceding last summer's Pacific coast maritime strike and the spectacular mass walkout of labor here appeared again Sunday in the Far West.

Fear that 75,000 loggers and lumber workers might walk out was expressed by Charles W. Hope, Seattle regional labor board director.

Concern over the coast shipping situation also centered at Seattle, where representatives of 35,000 maritime workers will meet today to consider support for striking oil tanker seamen.

Other Labor Troubles

Other troubles, such as a threatened strike by 1,000 San Francisco bakers and a walkout of 350 warehousemen at Stockton, California, added gloom to the general picture.

The Seattle labor board director, who explained he had been on an "opinion sounding" tour of the vast lumber region spreading into five states, declared: "Should the strike go ahead, it will be more far-reaching than the longshore strike last year."

Indications that the Seattle Maritime Union meeting might develop internal conflict between left and right wing factions were strengthened by a statement from E. B. O'Grady, president of the Maritime federation of the council of Marine Crafts, the organization involved in the gathering.

Marine Strike Imminent

"If control is wrested from me a marine strike is inevitable," said O'Grady, who called the meeting to consider "possible concerted action in the tanker strike."

The "flag bearer" of the left wingers at the conference will be Harry Bridges, president of the San Francisco longshoremen and militant leader of last year's long and sanguinary conflict here.

Regarding the lumber industry situation, Hope said his reports were from Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho and Montana and that he was informed employers were contemplating closing their plants unless "a happy medium" were reached on workers' demands.

MILK THIEF GIVEN FOOD BY VICTIM TO AID FAMILY

New York, April 15 (AP).—Justice transcended technicalities of the law Saturday to provide William Rittereiser, 41, with food for his wife and six children.

Rittereiser, a one-legged, unemployed bricklayer, and a neighbor stole a case of milk from a dairy Saturday. An hour later a detective burst into his dingy flat and found Rittereiser warming two bottles of the milk. In another room were his wife and six children, aged 18 months to 13 years.

"Sure I stole it," Rittereiser said. "Now you can take me away."

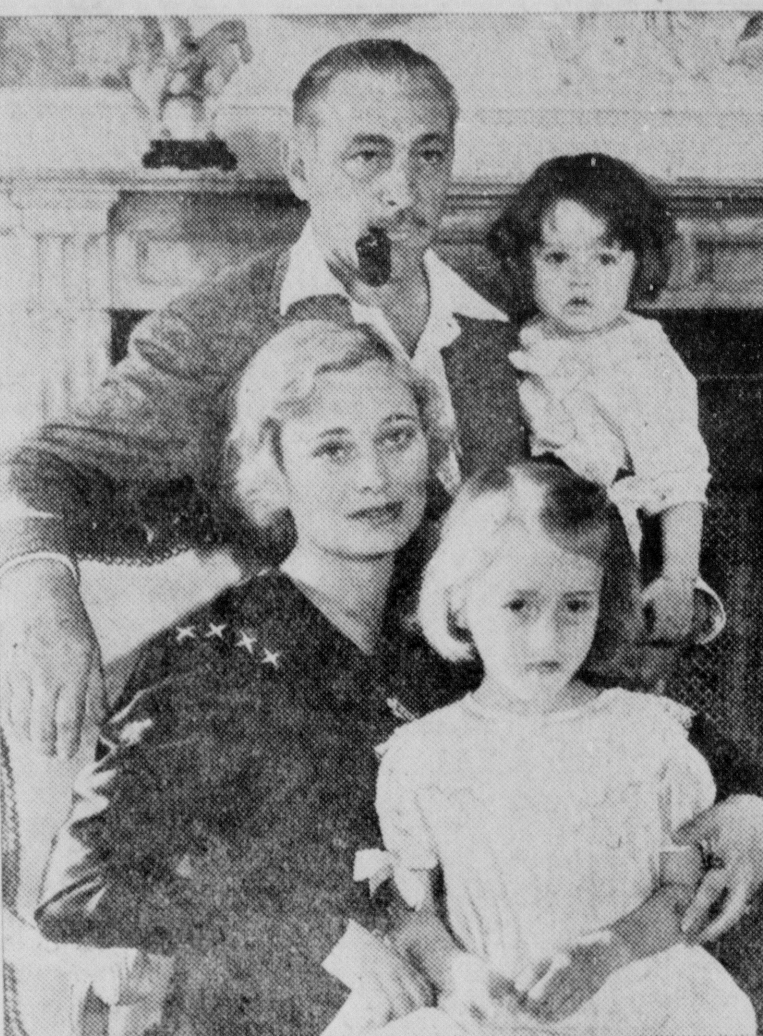

The dairy owner refused to press the charge and sent a basket of groceries to feed the family over the week-end. Magistrate Brodsky, in Yorkville court, dug into his jeans for a $5 bill.

AWAKES TO FIND HOME ATTACKED BY FLAMES

Denton, Md., April 15 (AP).—William C. Parrott awoke at his home, near the Holiness camp ground, a mile from here, early Saturday, to see flames playing around the ceiling near the chimney in his bedroom.

Investigating, he found the whole

REPORTED AT PARTING OF WAYS

Dolores Costello Barrymore was reported at the parting of the ways with her film-actor husband, John Barrymore, after she had taken an apartment for herself and their children. Barrymore would sue for divorce, it was reported. The entire family is shown above, during pleasant days, with Barrymore holding John Blyth, Jr. and his wife, the four-year-old daughter, Ethel Mae. second story of the house ablaze. He aroused Mrs. Parrott and they escaped. The building was destroyed. A passing motorist helped them save some of the furniture. The Denton volunteer fire company responded to a call for aid, but could not reach the scene in time to save the house. A defective chimney was blamed.

POST DOWN IN 3RD SPEED HOP

Noted Flier Forced to Land in Indiana in Attempt to Span Continent.

Lafayette, Ind., April 15 (AP).—Wiley Post's third attempt to crack the transcontinental airplane speed record by way of the stratosphere ended here late Sunday when, plagued by supercharger trouble, he brought the Winnie Mae down to a "belly landing" on the Purdue university airport.

Streaking away from the Burbank Union air terminal at 5:27.30 a. m. (Pacific coast time), Post came to earth at 3:40 p. m. (Central standard time), eight hours twelve and one-half minutes after he took to the air in California.

After circling the university field four or five times the flier came down on a six-foot skid attached to the bottom of his plane's fuselage in what airport attaches termed a "sweet landing." Post had dropped his landing gear just after his California take-off to cut wind resistance to a minimum.

"Get my hat off," were Post's first words. He was wearing a visored aluminum helmet and a sixteen-pound rubber fabric suit in which he received oxygen.

"Don't Want to Talk"

"Will you try it again?" he was asked. "I don't want to talk about it at all."

Post averaged 231.48 miles per hour in his 1,900-mile flight to Lafayette. On his second record attempt he averaged 279.36 miles per hour from Burbank to Cleveland.

Post said a clutch on one of his superchargers was stripped and that the trouble developed somewhere between Cincinnati and Chicago. He remained at the field for some time superintending the placing of wooden skis on the wheelless ship so that it could be towed into a hangar. He indicated he would remain here awaiting arrival of landing gear to be fitted on the ship.
